The whole saying that one man's freedom fighter is another man's terrorist is true. But the real point is, there is a choice. Man has a choice to see his freedom fighter as a terrorist or not. I believe man needs to have that choice. We cannot label everyone solely a terrorist or a freedom fighter.

Don't just look for the right one; be the right one. Finding the right man is important. Finding the perfect man, however, is completely unrealistic. What's more, guys can often tell you're subconsciously expecting a Superman that they can never live up to, so they back away. Instead, find a great man by being a great woman.

One should thus be weary of accepting the slogan 'one man's terrorist is another man's freedom fighter'. Terrorism is a form of political violence that inherently violates Jus in bello. Even if it is able to adhere to the Jus ad bellum-criteria, it would still thus be illegitimate. According to Just War Theory, the end does not justify the means.
