Molecular geometry refers to the 3-D shapes of molecules and polyatomic ions. The shape of a simple molecule or a polyatomic ion with one central atom can easily be predicted from Lewis structures by applying the valence shell electron pair repulsion (VSEPR) theory. According to the VSEPR theory, groups of electrons about a central atom are ...

When we use the term molecular geometry or molecular shape, we are not describing the shape of the electron regions, but rather, the location of the atoms. The words used to describe the shapes are therefore describing the location of the atoms. Where four atoms surround a central atom, the shape would be tetrahedral.

Lab 5 - Molecular Geometry

In order to establish the geometrical shapes and related aspects of molecules and molecular ions, one should first draw out the correct Lewis formula. From that one can determine the types and lengths of bonds, the VSEPR geometry, hybridization, bond angles, as well as the molecular shape and polarity. This is summarized in the flow chart below:

Molecular geometries (linear, trigonal, tetrahedral, trigonal bipyramidal, and octahedral) are determined by the VSEPR theory. A table of geometries using the VSEPR theory can facilitate drawing and understanding molecules. The table of molecular geometries can be found in the first figure. The second figure serves as a visual aid for the table.
